MR. VANKIRK FOR MAYOR.

The republicans of Janesville should do one thing to-morrow—make the election of Mr. W. T. Vankirk, a certainty. They have the power to do this because there is a republican majority in the city. Not a single vote should be thrown away, neither should any republican feel so sluggish concerning the municipal election as to stay away from the polls. The republicans of this city owe Mr. Vankirk their united support. They own him every energy they can bend that will secure his election. On political grounds he is entitled to every vote in the party, and the very best work the party can do for him. He has done a great deal of valuable work for the republicans of Janesville and of the county—working diligently, unceasingly, and always efficiently—and unlike the majority of party leaders is local politics; he has never asked reward in the shape of office for anything he has done. In remembrance of what he has done the republicans should go to the polls to-morrow with the programme made up to elect him mayor, and there should not be a single movement made, nor one thing left undone, that would, in the least, endanger his success.

But probably there are higher grounds than these that demand the election of Mr. Vankirk to the mayoralty, and these appeal to the citizens of Janesville regardless of party. He is among the most thrifty business men of the city. He has not only been successful but he is one of the leading spirits in every enterprise inaugurated for the special benefit of Janesville. He is thoroughly identified with every good work that will increase the material welfare of the city, and for this his money, influence, and time, are at the command of all emergencies. And with all this, he has the ability to make one of the best officers that ever presided in the council. He is energetic, is in every way qualified, is alive to the interests of the city, is thoroughly acquainted with municipal matters, has the courage of his convictions, and would administer the affairs of the city in a way that would meet the approval of all good citizens. For these reasons let W. T. Vankirk be elected.

Mr. Samuel L. Clemens, (Mark Twain) is doing much in aiding the government to pay off the national debt. He smokes three hundred cigars a month.

One of the Hawkins brothers, gamblers, says that if Harris is defeated he will leave Chicago. The whole country will then join in the wish that Carter Harrison will be defeated.

The telephone business has done much for Mr. Bell, the inventor. Seven years ago, he was a very poor man, but to-day he is worth over six millions with an annual income much greater than he can spend.

Misfortune persistently dogs the heels of some persons. An ex-member of the New York assembly, who at one time was in good circumstances, has been imprisoned twenty days for stealing a suit of clothes.

A few days ago the employees of the assembly gave Mr. Carr, the so-called chief clerk of that body, a present of a gold watch. This was done, as a matter of course, because they owed their positions to him, and they properly desired to make an acknowledgment of their appreciation of the favors received from him. Mr. Roger C. Spooner acted as chief clerk during the session. Mr. Carr not being able to perform the duties of the office, and it was wondered whether the members would in any substantial manner acknowledge his services. We are glad that the members of the assembly, regardless of party, honored Mr. Spooner as he deserved to be honored. On Saturday evening when there was a lull in the assembly proceedings, Mr. Spooner was called before the bar of the assembly, and presented with the following:

R. C. SPOONER, Esq., Acting Chief Clerk: Dear Sir—You will find to your credit with the Matthews Bros., furniture company, Milwaukee, Wis., one set of ebony, gold and black room furniture and one black-walnut hat rack, valued at $200.

J. E. FRIEND,
W. P. PACKARD,
BERNARD ESSER.

Mr. Speaker Finch, who is under many obligations to Mr. Spooner, made a brief address, and said that the members of the assembly presented this testimonial not as a present, nor in conformity to custom, but from sincere good will; and as a token of their appreciation of him personally. He said as poetic expressions were in order on such occasions, he would read a poem sent up by one of the members, who begged the tedious labor of statesmanship by courting the muses. It ran thus:

There is a young man named Spooner;
Sub-clerk, and you bet he's a sonner.
He spins a bill and he never gets ill;
This clipper young Roger C. Spooner.

RHODE ISLAND.

Ex-Governor Sprague's Opinion of the Campaign.

Butler in the Field—His Speech at Providence—Both Parties Confident.

Following details of the killing there of J. T. Tucker by Constable S. H. Rose: In passing the farm-house of Wiley Fowler a ferocious dog ran out and attacked Tucker, who shot and killed the animal. Fowler swore an affidavit against Tucker for killing the dog. The warrant was placed in the hands of Constable Rose, who took the dog and took the body of the dog in a wagon with Bob Loper. Tucker refused to surrender, and, drawing his pistol, turned loose on the officer, who returned the fire with a charge of buckshot, which took effect in Tucker's breast. He fell over, and, saying "God have mercy on my soul," died. The coroner's jury justified the officer. Loper received two duckshots in his arm.

MYSTERIOUS SHORTAGE.

Nine Thousand Dollars in Gold Certificates Abstracted From the New York Custom House.

New York, April 2.—Ex-Gov. William Sprague, of Rhode Island, while in this city on a visit, speaking of the political situation in that state, and of his own prospects for election to the office of governor, said: "In the coming election the voice of the people will be heard. There has been really no voting in the state before for twenty years, but now there will be an opportunity. The contest is one into which the question of equal rights enter largely; in fact, it is upon this issue that the whole question hinges. The equal-rights people have for many years sought to have an amendment doing away with the property qualification passed by the legislature. Year after year has gone by, and promises have been made, but the legislature has invariably refused to call a convention for this purpose. The people have now come to the conclusion that the time has come when they must act. The movement is now spreading, and I believe that the movement of the people will be strong enough to obtain their rights if it is widely popular."

"What effect will the nomination of a third candidate by the Stalwart Democracy have on the election?"

"The movement is really a very small one, and is not general among the Democrats of the state. Those who are in the know believe sincerely that most of the substantial Democrats are opposed to the boiling movement and denounce it, and I believe, just as sincerely, that they will support me. The movement you speak of does not really represent any party. I feel convinced that the Democracy of Rhode Island will support me, and that the movement of the so-called Independent Democrats will not affect the result of the election. The colored vote of the state, I anticipate, will be given to me solid. I believe that the Germans are in my favor, and the same may be said on the foreign element. To them it shall become a question whether a few men shall rule the state, and do all the thinking, or whether the people will rule and have the right of self-government."

COLLECTOR ROBERTSON said to a reporter that he was doing everything possible to ascertain where the missing certificates are. The banks and other financial institutions were asked to look for the certificates at the time of the loss. He found it difficult to be exact, as the custom house officials had taken the money, and the system of counting was so perfect that it was hard to see how the loss could be the result of an error. Yet that might be possible. He did not want to reflect on the master that nothing had been done in regard to the matter until he had concluded his investigation.

BROTHER "FRANK" SENTENCED TO FIVE YEARS' IMPRISONMENT.

BUFFALO, N. Y., April 2.—The jury in the case of Brother Frank, on trial for the rape of little Katie Carr, after a deliberation of twenty-four hours, in which they once asked for a reading of certain evidence, came in Saturday night with a verdict of guilty upon the second count of the indictment—that of attempt to rape. It was rumored in the morning that the prisoner would be acquitted and Tracy B. Becker, assistant to the district attorney, stood up and said, "We are satisfied, declaring that if he was he would never have the building alive." During the day Brother Frank spent most of the time in the office of the city attorney, pale, nervous and restless. The jury declared him guilty on the second count. When the prisoner was ordered to stand up, he declared that he was too weak to do so, and was assisted to his feet by an attempt to commit it. He was greatly excited, and during the delivery of the sentence great bonds of desperation rolled from his brow. Judge Haught characterized the crime as an unparalleled one, and stated that he had learned it was not the only one of the kind committed by the prisoner. "I sentenced him to stand up," he said, "but I am not going to stand him up." The prisoner will be removed to Auburn to-morrow. The case is the most exciting that has been tried in Buffalo for many years. There was a wide-spread belief in the innocence of the prisoner until it was learned that he had tacitly confessed to having been for years a debaucher of girls.

STEAMBOAT EXPLOSION.

THE POLAR STAR EXPLODED HER BOILERS. NEW YORK, April 2.—People Killed, Injured and Missing.

Cairo, Ill., April 2.—News reached here that the towboat Polar Star had exploded her boilers at a point opposite Columbus, Ky., twenty miles below Cairo. One of the pilots, John White, of Paducah, is reported killed. The engineer, name not known, was reported killed, and many of the crew missing.

The captain of the steamer Tyler said that about 3 o'clock in the afternoon, when his boat was within a few miles of Columbus, he saw a great quantity of smoke burst out with tremendous rapidity from all sides of the Polar Star and shortly after a roar like that of thunder shook the air. The Tyler steamed as rapidly as possible toward the ill-fated boat, and arrived to see it go to pieces and sink. Skiffs from Columbus and Belmont had reached the scene, and Capt. John Atkinson had rescued all those who could be found. Between fifteen and twenty-five persons are reported missing, among them the pilot and engineer. The captain, Jack Atkinson, received a severe scalding, though not serious. He was taken to Belmont, and a doctor was sent to him. The Tyler was finally dashed to the barges. The lumber was firmly lashed to the barges. The lumber in tow was to the Missouri shore by the steamer Young Conrad, of St. Louis. The hull sank in five minutes after the explosion, but was not entirely submerged.

Further reports state that Pilot Joe Jaynes, who was at the wheel, is badly scalped on the head and bruised about the hand. The cook, J. W. Colson, had an arm badly hurt, and Capt. Jack Atkinson was thrown into the river, and Capt. Atkinson's arm was broken. The boat could not talk intelligently. The boat was owned by Capt. Conrad, of St. Louis. The hull sank in five minutes after the explosion, but was not entirely submerged.

CAIRO, Ill., April 2.—The names of the men lost by the Polar Star explosion are: Adam Murphy, Joe Bell, Sam Vanier, Sandy Roachland, Aaron Shields, and George Taylor. They were firemen and roustabouts. Capt. Atkinson and Pilot Joseph Jaynes were injured. All were taken to St. Louis by rail from Belmont.

A $43,000 Robbery.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., April 2.—One of the most daring and successful burglaries that have been perpetrated in western New York for years occurred at 1 o'clock yesterday morning in the village of Rushville, over $40,000 in negotiable securities and $5,000 cash being secured.

Near the center of the town is located the drug store of Carson & Topping, and this is the place that was entered by the burglars. One part of the store is occupied by S. J. Jones, a capitalist whose business was principally that of loaning money on securities. At 6 o'clock, yesterday morning, when the clerk went to open the store, he found that the front plate-glass window had been shattered, and the burglar was breaking the front door, but not his eye was the safe with the door blown out and its entire contents gone. Mr. Jones was notified immediately, and found that the burglar had carried off almost his entire property.

The burglar is the greatest that has ever occurred in this section of the state, and was evidently the work of professionals.

The noise of the explosion was heard at a hotel opposite, but was not considered at the time wrong, for the reason that he had been discharged the previous evening in celebration of some local event.

WASHINGTON.

President Arthur Worn Out and Needing Rest.

Judge's Opinion Concerning the Star-Route Case.

Written in the Field for Speaker—Our New Navy—Danehewer Praised by His Men.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—The president's health is a not uncommon subject of comment, and very contradictory accounts are given of it. Those accounts result from taking very narrow views of what health is. It is known that the president is often out at dinner, and never goes to bed early, and therefore one man infers that he must be in robust health; or he could not stand another infer that he has some vague sense of serious illness. The truth about him is that he has weaknesses that impair his strength and subject him to extreme fatigue, but they do not confine him to his room or deprive him of the capacity of enjoying himself. For prediction becomes difficult during a congressional session, Mr. Arthur has been very tender-hearted than whom it is generally felt to be obliged to say no to amanitaries and needy applicants, but adheres rigidly to his rule to recommend no one to the heads of the departments for appointment, and he always states this with the utmost frankness at the first, though his candor is at least painful to himself as to the applicant for aid.

USED UP.

The end of congress last summer found the president completely used up, and a few days more of the session would have sent him to bed. Though the last session of congress was a short one, and when weather is still remote, the president has suffered severally from the unending solicitation he is exposed to especially during a session. He refuses to close his door to visitors, but when he comes at the time fixed may enter and ask the president for $5 or a foreign mission, or seek by cogent tears and a formidable array of helpless infants to move his sympathies, and they are very movable, to the extent of a chink in a department.

THE TRIP TO FLORIDA.

The president finding imperatively the need of rest, will try to find it in Florida. He will be accompanied in his trip by Privado Secretary Phillips, Mr. C. R. Miller, of New York, and probably by Secretary Chandler. This is the extent of the party. They may leave Monday, but not expect to leave till Tuesday.

They will have a private car, but it will be taken to the regular cars, and the president will go to Jacksonville with out stops, and then will turn up on the St. John's river to the town named for and found by one of our former ministers to Belgium.

The length of his stay there will depend on the quality of the weather and of the fishing. His way home will be made two or three points more direct than his usual route, to move a car or two across or travel with any more publicity than he can help. The trip will be a short one. The president does not expect to be absent more than two weeks at the outside.

MORRISON.

Judge Payson says that he knows that Wm. K. Morrison is a candidate for speaker, and that Mr. Morrison hopes to come in as a dark horse. Success in the speakership campaign would help Morrison before the Democratic presidential nominating convention, and for that reason he may make the race. Morrison would probably be the second choice of most of his party than any of the leading candidates.

CONSPIACY NOT PROVEN.

One of the judges of the one of the Washington courts has expressed the opinion that there would be no verdict in the star-route cases, and that if there was a verdict it would not be guilty of conspiracy. "They have proved," he said, "inquestionably a crime—gross maladministration and the corrupt use of money—and they have been for a year trying to fit that crime into conspiracy. They do not seem to have been successful. The star-route knew very well that it was a piece of thieving without any deliberate concert of action, but there was no general conspiracy—each man set on account."

"Why?" the question was asked of the judge, "did not the government, if it had evidence of crime, proceed then against the guilty persons instead of making do with bribery or embezzlement, and not attempt to make out a conspiracy?"

"This is what would have been the wiser course unquestionably, and I understand some of the later indictments are on that basis. Probably some of them will hold, but the conspiracy in the present case does not seem to be made out."

WAR VESSELS.

Secretary Chandler is endeavoring to hasten the work of building the new navy, and hopes to have the new turrets of the Miantonomah completed in six months, the engines for the monitors ready in a year, the cruisers completed in fifteen months, and the monitors finished within two years. As to the turrets of the Miantonomah, it has been decided to change the plan from the spindle system to the roller system, sinking the base several feet below the deck of the vessel. The turrets will be advertised for, and, as they cannot be built in this country, will have to be imported.

It is proposed to have the monitors built of iron. Of the amount appropriated for the launching of these vessels $1,000,000 will be expended for that purpose, leaving $20,000 which may be used in addition to the million which was appropriated for the engines.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

Secretary Chandler is endeavoring to hasten the work of building the new navy, and hopes to have the new turrets of the Miantonomah completed in six months, the engines for the monitors ready in a year, the cruisers completed in fifteen months, and the monitors finished within two years. As to the turrets of the Miantonomah, it has been decided to change the plan from the spindle system to the roller system, sinking the base several feet below the deck of the vessel. The turrets will be advertised for, and, as they cannot be built in this country, will have to be imported.

The survivors of the expedition have now all been heard and, if any one of them knew anything of the mistakes or faults on the part of their commander, they have decided to withhold it.

MARTIN, OF KANSAS.

The name of the new candidate for postmaster-general has been received at the White House. John A. Martin, of Kansas, the secretary of the Republican national committee, who was elected to fill the place resigned by R. W. Dorrance, last winter, is endorsed by the governor and all the prominent men of his state for the vacant cabinet position.

AN EXPERIMENTAL FARM.

The department of agriculture will shortly establish near this city, an experimental farm and hospital for the treatment of domestic animals, with a view to ascertaining by a series of scientific experiments what are the causes of such diseases as Texas fever, pluviophthisis, etc., and what are the best methods of preventing or curing them. The experiments will be under the direction of Dr. D. E. Salmon, of Asheville, N. C., a specialist who has been for some time engaged in such investigations.

POLITICS IN FLORIDA.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—Leading members of the five great political parties in Florida have recently met and taken steps looking to an independent movement, with special reference to governor and United States senator. The election takes place next year, and the movement has been begun early to make it more thorough.

Nothing is said about the presidential question. At last fall's certain Democrats were an understanding whereby certain Republicans supported certain Democratic candidates and Republicans supported certain Democrats. It was successful wherever the arrangement was made. Out of this the independent movement was born. There is no secret where that will sweep the state. The election of a Republican United States senator is not impossible, for the idea seems to be that as a general thing the Republicans shall be the federal offices, while the Democrats take the state offices.

SIX MORE BODIES RECOVERED AT THE DIAMOND MINE.

BRAZDWOOD, Ill., April 2.—There was great excitement at the Diamond yesterday, as six more bodies were recovered. They were identified as being H. Pearson, John Pearson, James Pearson, Thomas Rogers, Hugh Ramsey, and Andy Fulton. They were not identified by their features, as they were unrecognizable. Wives, brothers, sisters, and mothers were frantic over the unusual appearance of the bodies. The exploring party that brought the bodies out were scattered with whisky and quinine. This was on account of the terrible stench that arose from the decomposed bodies. The squad was to go on at 6 o'clock, and also at 12, were discontinued, and refused to go down. The last exploring party, which was led by Louis Joliette, was brought forth, were closed in by falling stones, thereby jeopardizing their lives to such an extent that they did not deem it expedient to pursue the work any further, as they had to be rescued by second volunteer force. It was decided to let all the bodies remain where they lay until the death scene of the will only result in the death scene of the will, of those who persist in this disgusting work. Superintendent Cory, of the C. W. & V. Coal company, is to meet the widows of those that still remain in the mine at 6 o'clock p. m. to day and permit them to view the bodies of their dear ones. The coroner's inquest will be held Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

LOUISE MICHEL.

Growing Excitement in France Over Her Arrest.

Incendiary Speeches Made at the Meetings of the Revolutionists
—The Situation Every-where Critical.

PARIS, April 2.—The excitement over the arrest of Louise Michel is increasing. A great number of meetings were held Saturday afternoon and evening by the Revolutionists and all were closely watched by the police, but there was no disorder. Nearly 3000 troops were under arms and ready to march at a moment's notice. Among the meetings held was one in the Rue de Rivoli, at which nearly 5,000 persons were present. M. Joliette, a very municipal councilor who recently proposed rearming the National guard and re-establishing municipal workshops, said that the existence of the present republic was due to the self-sacrificing ardor of such patriots as Louise Michel and that the confederations of 1871 purifed Italy, but that other confederations might be necessary. John LaMureaux urged the same to towns the same scale of excited anticipation exists. At Marseilles, St. Etienne, Lyon, Narbonne, Lyons, Bourges, Havre, Montpelier and Nantes the revolutionary parades are active. Meetings are held almost daily, and the situation appears to be as critical. Arrests have been many, but no persons have been arrested charged with complicity in revolutionary movements.

The small towns the same scale of excited

Two Men Fatally Shot.

ATLANTIC, Iowa, April 2.—Two weeks ago Rollo Straub was killed at Exira, Iowa, by a party of citizens of that place. Straub was a member of a gang of roughs and outlaws that were a terror to the neighborhood for miles around. The killing of Straub has been the means of uniting an intense feeling upon the part of his father and friends, which has at length culminated in the shooting of his son, George Hallcock, father of James Lee Straub, Hallcock, a young man who has been suspected by Straub's friends of being the party who fired the fatal shot, was met on his way home with a load of wood, by Straub and Hallcock. Hallcock states that he was shot in the head, and was everywhere received with great enthusiasm, and it is difficult to say whether the surprise of the Conservatives at these demonstrations of friendly interest or Mr. Chamberlain's alarm has been the most notable. Mr. Chamberlain has bitterly resented Lord Salisbury's presumption in appearing among the workmen of the Midland districts, who are beginning to view him with alarm at English-speaking trials.

The loss of his faithful servant has profoundly affected the queen. The loss of the press in noticing Brown's death and the friend-ship for him of royal miseries has been decidedly sympathetic, except in Radical quarters where there has been a good deal of sneering at the queen's grief.

The decision to change the uniform of the army from the fine honored scarlet to the horrid gray, which is regarded as more fit keeping with the practical effects of modern war-making, suggests a desire to make the army look like a bunch of devils, to keep the soldiers in the various towns, in order to liven the riotous, but to wear Confederate gray whenever the soldiers are sent upon active service.

The change will be made gradually, the soldiers are sent upon active service.

The loss of her faithful servant has profoundly affected the queen. The loss of the press in noticing Brown's death and the friend-ship for him of royal miseries has been decidedly sympathetic, except in Radical quarters where there has been a good deal of sneering at the queen's grief.

The decision to change the uniform of the army from the fine honored scarlet to the horrid gray, which is regarded as more fit keeping with the practical effects of modern war-making, suggests a desire to make the army look like a bunch of devils, to keep the soldiers in the various towns, in order to liven the riotous, but to wear Confederate gray whenever the soldiers are sent upon active service.

The change will be made gradually, the soldiers are sent upon active service.
